Phytel Selects CPR Strategic Marketing Communications To Launch National Public Relations Campaign

Elmwood Park, N.J./Dallas, Texas-March 10, 2009 – Phytel (www.phytel.com), the leading provider of automated patient follow-up care solutions, has chosen CPR Strategic Marketing Communications (www.cpronline.com) to provide a wide range of media relations activities.

“Based upon CPR’s experience in health care and technology, we have a high level of confidence,” says Guy Mansueto, vice president of marketing at Phytel, a company that offers technology solutions to strengthen the physician/patient relationship.

Since 1996, Phytel has been dedicated to improving care by automating the follow-up process for a practice’s patient population. As a result, the doctor-patient relationship is greatly improved, along with better patient compliance and enhanced patient health.

By automating the follow-up process, Phytel’s Proactive Patient Outreach solution improves coordination of care, specifically among patients with chronic conditions and those in need of preventive care services. Phytel’s scheduling reminders are held up to pre-existing standards among the medical community and can be tailored to meet a practice’s needs

“The Phytel model is already generating significant attention,” states Joseph Carabello, president and CEO of CPR. “We are pleased to represent a market leader.”
